Ice Storm — It's Worse Than a Blizzard

Sunday night I was kept late at the office getting out monthly remittances and making advance preparations for closing the books on a good year. But after wrapping it all up I found my departure was going to be delayed.

The temperature was 25, it was sleeting, the streets were glazed over and the police radio in the office reported all highway traffic in Arkansas was halted. A great ice storm had started in West Texas; the temperature at Dallas was 25 in mid-afternoon, with sleet and snow—and the terror was hitting Arkansas at nightfall.

I had some thoughtful calls from staff members and the Hope police offering to drive me home—but I thanked them and said I would keep in touch. As a matter of fact, the plover car did follow me until I had safely reached my garage.

Any fellow originating from northern Pennsylvania and the Pocono mountains has knowledge of ice storms, and the caution they breed in a man. Ice storms are worse than blizzards; deep snow may stop you in your tracks, but snow is not treacherous like ice-covered streets without snow. Winter drivers in the mountains fear hitting a slick underlayer of ice, and always keep an eye on the nearest patch of snow—knowing that you can steer into the snow to check a skid.

The facts about winter driving in the Pocono Mountains region of Pennsylvania—Wilkes-Barre and Scranton—are rigorous enough. Wilkes-Barre could expect 14 degrees below in the business district, 20 degrees below at our mountain farm, and 40 below at the Pocono mountain lodges deserted and desolate in winter.

The one thing to remember under icing conditions is to run your car with what horsemen used to call "a loose rein." Slow speed, light on the accelerator, and keep your foot off the brake pedal.

A car is built to have an inherent sense of balance. If it goes out of control on ice leave the accelerator and brakes alone, the car will correct its own skid—if your speed is moderate.

In this respect an automobile is like an airplane. Every plane before licensing must demonstrate that it can come out of a deadly spin without any human hands at the controls. If it won't do so it is sent back to the drafting board for correction in design.

You are ahead of me with your guess—and you are correct. Drivers and pilots aren't ever as good as their machines. Sometimes they freeze on the controls and crash—instead of letting the machine correct itself as it was designed to do.

Haitians arrive in Florida

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A battered, leaking 56-foot sailboat grounded on a beach near luxury condominiums today carrying 66 Haitian refugees, 12 of whom said they bribed their way out of jail to flee their native land.

Police said the refugees, "packed like sardines" in their craft, included several elderly women who were ill and a 22-year-old woman who was five months pregnant.

Yvon Bruno, who said he was the leader of the group, reported that the refugees fled Port au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 23 after his father bribed the captain of the guard at a jail to free Bruno and 11 other "political prisoners."

Slippery fun

Rain, mixed with sleet and a small amount of snow late Sunday and early Monday produced an icy glaze over streets and sidewalks in the Hope area. Most people in the downtown area found driving and walking extremely hazardous, but two boys showed different styles for maneuvering on the ice — by taking a running start and sliding for a half-block or more. Searching for ancient 'keys' on the moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — In the moon's valley of Taurus-Littrow, a gray geologic wonder dotted with auto-size boulders, two Americans slept late today, bone-tired from setting up a sophisticated scientific camp and acclimating the terrain.

Their plans to search a lunar landslide tonight for perhaps the most ancient rocks ever seen were pushed back an hour after they bedded down late and received the go-ahead for a full eight hours of sleep.

Mission Control said astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt would be awakened shortly before 3 p.m. EST today, pushing the start of their second moon walk back to 6:03 p.m.

Tonight one of the first chores for the 11th and 12th — and perhaps last — men to visit the moon in this century will be to form a makeshift ladder to fit over the right rear wheel of their electric-powered car, Rover. They will use clamps and cardboard or insulation material from the lunar ship.

The ladder fell off during a drive Monday, and the unprotected wheel tossed dark dust over the astronauts, prompting Cernan to remark: "It's going to take us half a dozen Sundays to dust off."

The object of their scheduled journey in Rover tonight is a mountain slide on the South Massif which "uplled" rock debris across the valley in some ancient time.

There, they hope to find rocks created in the process by which the moon was formed and shaped, material dating perhaps to lunar beginnings 4.6 billion years ago.

Overhead, along aboard the command ship America, the third Apollo spaceman, Ronald E. Evans, also rested. Tonight he will operate an array of science instruments and cameras which study the moon from orbit.

In one of the most accurate moon landings ever achieved, Cernan and Schmitt brought Challenger to rest only 300 feet from their aiming point.

A few hours later, Cernan, then Schmitt, climbed down a ladder to start the first of three surface excursions which will cover more than 20 miles of the moon's surface. They will collect some 200 pounds of rock.

When Cernan first planted his foot on the moon, he said solemnly, "I'd like to dedicate the first step of Apollo 17 to all those who made it possible."

Then, like children in an unbelievably exciting playground, Cernan and Schmitt frolicked, laughing and singing and gliding with tip-toe freedom in the light lunar gravity.

"I'm out here. Oh, my golly. Unbelievable! Unbelievable!" shouted Cernan.

They unloaded the little lunar rover and turned on a television camera, giving Mission Control the first view on earth of Taurus-Littrow.

The valley was everything and more than they had expected. Boulders larger than panel trucks, coated with glass and pitted from the impact of meteorites, checked the valley floor like icebergs floating on a gray, dead sea. They saw glass sparkling in craters and looked long at the mountains, which appeared soft, as though covered with fur.

Cernan unwrapped an American flag which once was displayed in the Mission Control Center, and the explorers planted their nation's sixth banner on the moon.

"Deploying that flag has got to be one of the most proud moments in my life," said Cernan. "This flag has flown in Mission Control since Apollo 11 (the first landing). We very proudly deploy it on the moon to stay for as long as it can in honor of all those people who have worked so hard to put us and every crew here and to make the U.S. and mankind something different than it was."

Quickly, the spacemen learned that exploring the moon can be a dirty business. Both fell down, and their suits, which seemed to glow ghostlike in the blinding sunlight, quickly became smeared with the clinging gray dirt.

"I just got my first initiation to getting very dirty," said Schmitt after his first fall in the moon's low gravity. "I haven't quite learned how to pick up rocks with my hands yet ... which is very embarrassing for a geologist. That's why I fell down."

The astronauts quickly deployed their lunar rover, and Cernan boarded the little car for a short test spin.

"Challenger's baby is on the road!" he exclaimed. But the lunar excursion, begun as a frolic, soon turned into a grim contest of man against the moon.

Cernan drilled an eight-foot bit into the moon, using an electric drill, and then tried to pull the bit out for a core-tube sample.

First he tugged by hand. No go. Then he attached a jacklike tool. No go. Then Cernan threw his weight against the jack, bouncing down into the dust on his hands and knees. No go. Again and again he tried, his breath coming in bursts.

Mission Control warned him several times to slow down, saying he was building up too much heat inside his space suit. Once, he was told his heart beat was rising rapidly, and the astronaut paused.

Schmitt joined Cernan, and together they worked the core tool.

The astronauts deployed the science station, a series of instruments attached to a central power station by wires which wiggled and twisted as if alive in the low lunar gravity.

Tardily, but a "I gave the astronauts made a hard drive in the lunar rover, motoring to craters a few hundred yards away to collect samples.

The astronauts returned to Challenger at 2:01 a.m. EST after spending six hours, 55 minutes on the moon's surface. They entered the small cabin of their craft gasping from exhaustion, covered with the black dust which they said smelled like gunpowder but exuberant over their day's work.

'Happy day' for astronauts' families

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Inside the home on Barbuda Lane, a family thrilled to television views of a husband and father bouncing across the lunar surface.

Outside, the moon couldn't even be seen through the mist of a wet, gloomy Texas night.

Monday's drama began for Barbara Cernan and her 9-year-old daughter, Tracy, in mid-afternoon when Apollo 17 astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt set off in a lander named Challenger for man's sixth touchdown on the moon.

"This is the happiest day of my life," said Mrs. Cernan.

"They're having a ball," added Jan Evans, whose husband Ron, the third man of Apollo 17, circled high above the lunar surface in the command ship America. Mrs. Evans spent the afternoon at the Cernan home.

For Tracy Cernan, the high point came as she watched via television as her father and his moonmate explored the dusty lunar surface.

"He's a good driver," she reported before Cernan climbed aboard the moon rover.

Earlier, the Cernan home, filled with friends and members of the space community, rocked with cheers and champagne toasts as Cernan and Evans arrived at their lunar target.

"The Challenger has landed," Cernan reported, touching off the gala celebration on earth.

"It was even more beautiful than I expected it to be," said Barbara, embracing both Tracy and Jan Evans.

"I thought the liftoff was the most spectacular thing I'd ever witnessed. But listening to them land was just unbelievable."

While admitting that the role of an astronaut's wife is "just a life you learn to live," the blonde, former airline stewardess said the "lumps" tend to "get bigger as the years go by."

The Apollo wives were joined during the tense moments of the spaceship's lunar descent by two former Apollo moon visitors, David R. Scott and Alan Bean.

And the landing of Apollo 17 brought together a bit of the first and last of the historic Apollo series. Among the houseguests was Martha Chaffee Canfield, whose former husband, Roger Chaffee, died in the Apollo 1 fire.

'Pie' divided, Washington to receive 'slice'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers made his recommendations Monday on how the accumulating state treasury surplus should be divided, and the largest slice went to colleges and universities. However, Bumpers did recommend $300,000 be set aside for state operation of the Pioneer Washington in Hempstead County and for further development and restoration of the proposed tourist attraction.

The governor's recommendations to the Legislative Council totaled $91,787,060, representing a cut of $42.6 million in the amount state agencies had requested.

State fiscal experts have said the anticipated general revenue surplus available to spend by the 1973 legislature would approach $100 million. There have been predictions the amount could top that figure.

Most of the money under Bumpers' recommendations would be spent for construction and purchases of equipment. The governor had discussed many of Monday's recommendations previously.

Among the major recommendations by Bumpers were:

—$17,021,900 for the colleges and universities. —$14,651,000 for renovation and improvements at the University of Arkansas Medical Center at Little Rock.

—$10 million to acquire and protect wilderness and scenic areas.

—$7.5 million to start a free textbook program in the upper four grades of the public schools.

—$15 million for the Public Building Authority to construct a state office building.

—$2 million to start a self-insurance program for public schools.

Bumpers also proposed that the legislature set aside $10 million of the surplus as a reserve to meet any unanticipated needs.

In his recommendation for the Medical Center, the governor chose the least expensive of two plans proposed by officials of the institution. The alternate plan would have called for a state expenditure of $18,149,000. Officials anticipate that about $9 million in matching federal funds can be obtained to help finance the renovation.

Bumpers recommended $5,654,613 for the Department of

Pace quickens in VN peace talks

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The pace quickened in the Vietnam cease-fire negotiations today with two subcommittee meetings in the morning and another session between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho in the afternoon.

Despite the continuing official news blackout, the subcommittee meetings to discuss details of a cease-fire agreement seemed to indicate the negotiations between Kissinger and Tho were nearing a climax.

French dispatches from Peking said Premier Chou En-lai told newsmen Monday: "An agreement could be signed in Paris in the next two or three days."

Expectations of a break in the negotiations were heightened by a report from Bangkok that U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger had briefed the key members of Thailand's ruling junta for an hour today on the progress of the Paris talks. Much of the U.S. air forces now carrying on the war against North Vietnam are based in Thailand.

The higher ranking subcommittee included William J. Porter, the chief U.S. delegate at the four-party Paris peace talks; William Sullivan, deputy assistant secretary of state for Southeast Asian affairs; Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief delegate at the weekly peace talks, and Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

The other subcommittee was made up of technical experts. Kissinger and Tho met for four hours Monday, beginning and ending with the usual broad smiles and cordial handshakes. It was their 13th meeting since they began three weeks ago to revise the cease-fire agreement they drafted in October.

In Saigon, President Nguyen Van Thieu proposed the release of all prisoners of war on both sides, the observance of the annual Christmas cease-fire and separate negotiations during the cease-fire between his government and the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to work out a peace agreement and political settlement. He said the cease-fire could be extended as long as the Communists were willing to observe it.

The South Vietnamese president also repeated his persistent demand that all North Vietnamese troops withdraw from South Vietnam. This time he said that the South Vietnamese army would demobilize as many troops as the North Vietnamese withdraw.

Western political observers in Saigon predicted that Hanoi would reject or ignore the proposal, as it has similar Saigon plans in the past. Some South Vietnamese legislators said they found nothing new in Thieu's offer.

Truman holding his own

By JIM BAGBY
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's respiration, pulse and temperature were unstable overnight, the former president's doctors reported today.

A spokesman at Research Hospital and Medical Center said at 10 a.m. EST that the 88-year-old Truman's "vital signs became somewhat unstable during the night. Respiration, pulse and temperature increased. Blood pressure remains within normal limits."

The spokesman did not elaborate and did not supply specific pulse, temperature and blood pressure counts as has been the practice in previous briefings.

The hospital's three advisors Monday described Truman as resting, but doctors cautioned that his condition "still is serious and will continue so for an indefinite time."

Truman was taken to the hospital last Tuesday after he displayed symptoms of lung congestion. He failed to respond to antibiotic medication and was classified as critical Wednesday when kidney and heart problems developed.

Doctors closely monitored irregularities in Truman's heart-beat Monday night; but, during the final briefing, a hospital spokesman said the doctors made no further comments on his heart rhythm.

The 10 p.m. EST medical report said, "At President Truman's age, arteriosclerotic changes are expected. They affect the central nervous system and the kidney and heart functions to varying degrees."

Truman was taken off the critical list Sunday after he showed signs of general improvement.

The hospital reports Monday added that Truman continued to receive oxygen by face mask to reduce stress on his heart.

Truman was visited Monday by his 87-year-old wife, Bess, and their daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician for more than 25 years, said Monday that Truman was in no pain and usually rests in a slightly elevated position in his bed on the sixth floor of Research Hospital.

'Moose' appeal is dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has dismissed an appeal from a Moose Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa., which sought to overturn a state supreme court decision that it must admit blacks as guests if it serves any guests at all.

The appeal from Moose Lodge 107 was dismissed unanimously "for want of a substantial question." The lodge argued that the reasoning requiring it to admit black guests could also apply to dining rooms in private homes, once guests were admitted who were not members of the family.

Thieu proposes peace package

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu proposed a peace package today that included a Christmas cease-fire, immediate release of all American and Vietnamese prisoners of war and Vietnamese-only negotiations to work out a comprehensive settlement with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Thieu told a joint session of the National Assembly that the package would be presented formally at the weekly session Thursday of the four-party peace talks in Paris.

Western political observers predicted that North Vietnam would reject or ignore the proposal, as it has similar proposals by Saigon in the past. Some South Vietnamese legislators said they found nothing new in the proposal.

Thieu said the Christmas cease-fire he proposed could be extended indefinitely if it was "not used to prepare more large-scale attacks and killings and, concurrently, if the consultations progress in an encouraging way with the sincerity and good will of all the parties."

"During the time of this truce," he declared, "two concrete and useful actions can be easily taken. These are:

"First, to release the prisoners of war on time to be repatriated for Christmas.

"Second, All the Vietnamese parties — namely North Vietnam, the Republic of Vietnam and the National Liberation Front — hold consultations to discuss every problem of mutual concern, to lay the foundation for conducting serious and useful negotiations to conclude a settlement to end the war and restore peace, on military as well as political questions, including problems between the two zones and between the South Vietnamese themselves."

Thieu hammered hard on the prisoner-of-war issue, obviously with the American public in mind. He said his government maintains its "generous offer which has been made to the government of the United States, namely that the government of South Vietnam stands ready to contribute its part in solving the problem of the U.S. prisoners of war on the occasion of Christmas by releasing to North Vietnam all the North Vietnamese prisoners of war currently detained in South Vietnam."

Bumpers recommends a slight hike in local government revenues

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Saying he could not support the allocation of a fixed percentage of general revenues to city and county governments, Gov. Dale Bumpers recommended Monday only slight increases in their share of revenues.

The governor's recommendations to the Legislative Council Monday were $6,750,000 for distribution among the counties in each year of the coming biennium and $7.5 million for the cities. City and county allotments in the current fiscal year total $6 million in each category.

The Arkansas Municipal League and the Association of Arkansas Counties had asked for a flat 7 per cent of general revenues.

Under their request, the cities would receive 4 per cent of general revenues and counties 3 per cent in each year of the coming biennium. Their requested percentage share would total nearly $30 million by the second year of the biennium, based on current estimates of anticipated general revenues.

Bumpers said he would favor turning back to the cities and counties any local government revenue-sharing funds that revert to the state because the local governments do not qualify for them because of a low level of tax effort.

Bumpers recommended to the council the full request of the Department of Higher Education for community colleges. The recommendation is for $1,950,000 in the first year of the biennium for grants to existing colleges and $2,150,000 in the second year.

The governor also recommended $2.5 million for construction of new colleges in the first year and $3 million in the second year.

He proposed $400,000 in state funds each year of the next biennium for the Arkansas Commission on Crime and Law Enforcement to meet a new federal requirement that a state match federal money.

The commission had asked for $733,333 in the first year and $833,333 in the second year.

Crack down urged on morning after pill

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fearful of a "possible second cancer epidemic" from the controversial drug DES, Ralph Nader is urging the Food and Drug Administration to crack down on its use as a morning-after birth-control pill.

The consumer advocate's Health Research Group issued an eight-page report Monday charging that university health clinics are handing out diethylstilbestrol (DES) without warning coeds that they and their possible offspring are being exposed to a risk of cancer.

"It is clear that widespread and totally uncontrolled use of DES as a morning-after pill is a serious problem with possibly heavy, although unknown, consequences for the public health," the report said. "The drug industry, the FDA and the doctors must act to prevent this abuse."

The deputy director of FDA's Bureau of Drugs, Dr. Marion Finkel, said the agency hopes to resolve the problem within a few weeks.

The FDA's National Drug Advisory Committee has concluded tentatively that DES effectively prevents pregnancy within 72 hours after intercourse, she said.

"What we don't know is certain safety problems and the degree of efficacy," she added. Drug companies, she said, have not responded to FDA appeals for further research so "I think we're going to have to come to a decision without the help of manufacturers."

DES, a synthetic hormone, has been linked to vaginal cancer in about 100 women whose mothers took it during the 1940s and 1950s to avoid miscarriage. It since has been judged ineffective for that use, and now is prescribed most often for post-menopausal complications.

The Nader group said the unapproved use of DES as a post-coital contraceptive "has apparently been going on uncurbed for a number of years."

The report mentioned specifically the University of Michigan, which has treated more than 1,000 young women with DES, and the University of Pennsylvania, which has FDA approval for investigating its use in treating rape victims.

Medical officials at the Pennsylvania and Michigan schools discounted the warnings. "I've not seen anything yet in medical literature that anything has happened to the mothers" who used DES, said Dr. Paul F. Schrode, director of student health services at the University of Pennsylvania.

The only reported risk, he said, has been to children born to mothers taking DES. "Happily, most girls who get the morning-after pill would not go on to pregnancy."

Drummer boy spread

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The holidays are really the "big cheese" for those who enjoy giving and receiving presents. Why not, then, make it a time of enjoying a very special cheese and liverwurst spread concoction that all ages will enjoy.

DRUMMER BOY SPREAD

- 2 4 1/2 ounce cans liverwurst spread
- 2 8 ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 4 ounces camembert cheese
- 2 tablespoons crumbled blue cheese
- 1 teaspoon lime juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Reserving four ounces of cream cheese for decoration, combine remaining ingredients except pecans. On waxed paper, shape cheese mixture into a cylinder resembling a drum. Once chilled, smooth edges and top of drum with a knife. Roll curved edges of drum in nuts. Place on serving dish and then decorate with remaining cream cheese. Serve with your favorite crackers. Makes about 3 1/2 cups spread.

Liberation's Vexations

HELEN AND SUE:

My boyfriend is just plain cheap—or maybe he takes women's liberation personally. Every time we go out to dinner and the movies, he accidentally (that's what HE says) forgets his money and I end up paying.

His parents are well off. He gets a good allowance and even works off and on, which I don't. Please tell me what to do before I go—BROKE.

DEAR BROKE:
Leave your purse at home—and be sure he notices BEFORE you order.—HELEN BROKE:

Why don't you spring for a 60-cent "statement" pad; then each time your h.f. "borrows" from you, whip it out, write down the amount, date, items, etc., and give him a copy? If you can keep it funny, you'll keep the guy while still teaching him a lesson.—SUE

I'm not a staunch women's libber, but I'm beginning to see the light, as they say, after this experience:

I went out to dinner last night with Toby, a guy from school. The invitation itself was a big production. He practically kissed my hand when I accepted—and I had a feeling it wouldn't be a Golden Arches evening. So great a girl needs more than Big Macs and French fries in her life. But so MUCH more?

He rang the door bell. My father answered. He asked for me with proper deference. My dad looked stunned. He's not used to guys who sorta bow from the waist.

I greeted Toby. He helped me slip my coat on, opened the front door, opened the car door and helped me in. Afterwards, get this: he fastened my seat belt! When we arrived at the restaurant (on time!), I kinda made a move for the car door, but he said, "Stay right there," so out he popped, trotted around to my side (seemed like hours that I waited), opened my door, unfastened my seat belt, escorted me by the arm into the restaurant. Inside, he pulled out my chair, helped me off with my coat and ordered for me!

When our food came, I reached for the salad (family style in a big bowl) but I wasn't fast enough. He served me. Ditto soup, pasta—and he even buttered my bread! He also hung on my every word like I was wonderful, when I KNOW I'm only dumb old normal me. We went through the same door-opening, seat belt-fastening routine on the way home, and at my door he took my hand and said, "I had an enjoyable evening. Thanks for coming. You're really a FUN person."

Now I ask you, how could I be fun when I was no more than his puppet? I got the feeling I couldn't even breathe without him checking out the air first.

My mother thinks he's the greatest thing since Cary Grant. What do you think Sue?—Would YOU enjoy life on a high pedestal? I like him, but how do I get him off the "adoration" trip?—ORDINARY GIRL:

How about honesty? Tell him, "Please don't put me on a pedestal. I'm afraid of heights." And let him know you're a Golden Arches type. He might even be relieved!—SUE

DEAR RAP:

I just read about some people who were arrested for putting on a dog fight and taking bets on the winner. How cruel can guys be? Those poor animals killing each other, just so someone can make money! It's worse than raising Dalmatians to make swanky fur coats for society dames. Could we start a "Dog's best friend" society to protect them from their enemies: man?—OUTRAGED:

DEAR OUTRAGED:
Hopefully, a "dog's best friend: man" society won't be necessary. Both dog fights and canine fur coats are not exactly encouraged by police in the United States.—HELEN AND SUE

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

Be your "own man" this year in order to fulfill aspirations. Others may misunderstand your desires. You know what you want—go after it.

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 9) People will be quite nosy regarding your confidential affairs. Don't reveal everything. Keep some secrets.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20) Discussing your plans with friends will prove helpful. Asking them for a financial commitment is another matter.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Let your achievements seek their own level of merit. Outsiders' opinions will be disappointing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A domineering co-worker could prove disagreeable if you allow it. Those who care will put him in his place.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Affairs of the heart aren't too nifty early in the day. Later things chart a smoother course.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Someone with whom you share a close relationship displays some naughty temperament. An apology will follow.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Don't let work demands dismay you. This can be a profitable day if you keep your shoulder to the wheel.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Buying luxury items without comparing prices could prove expensive. Check several sources.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Managing the family in a dictatorial manner won't work. Let the true, compassionate you shine through.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) If you have travel plans today, don't do it at the expense of responsibilities. They won't stay under the rug.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Financial matters generate quite a bit of activity today with income and output. Put in more than you take out.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20) Others think they have your day laid out for you. Let them know you have things YOU want to do.

Am I My QB's Keeper?

By JOAN RYAN

WASHINGTON (NEA)

John Unitas, age 39, reportedly kicked his number 19 jersey into a corner of the Baltimore Colts' locker room and voted to play football next year with any team but the Colts. He's mad because he was benched in favor of youthful promise.

Sonny Jurgensen, age 38, lay in his Georgetown hospital bed surveying his leg cast and hinted that he'd be back in uniform for the 1973 season despite Coach George Allen's motto: "The Future Is Now."

Earl Morrall, age 39, sprang to life on the Miami Dolphins' bench as injured Bob Griese was hauled off the field and began throwing touchdown passes for his sixth NFL team in 17 years of active duty.

While Sandy Unitas and Margo Jurgensen nodded in slack-jawed assent, Jane Morrall held her ground.

Earl is in Florida for the season but Jane is throwing another log on the fire back in Michigan. She's also watching their 15-year-old son play high school football and awaiting the birth of her fifth child. "I'm too old and too pregnant for the excitement of pro football," she said. "But Earl looked like a spring chicken out there."

It is a disappointment to the NFL wives of some of the hardier players that there is no compulsory retirement age. Sure enough, as time marches on, many men who should be playing croquet in the backyard are still out there facing the blitz.

Y. A. Tittle confessed that a still, small voice told him to retire. "When Gary Wood (his back-up quarterback) asked me if he could date my daughter, I knew it was time to hang them up," Y. A. said.

I got an emergency telephone call from a friend of mine last Sunday night. Her husband has been playing since 1957 and shows no sign of tiring or retiring.

"Joan," she anguished. "I'm in the middle of my annual November mid-season purple funk. You know, he's 38 years old and he's still playing a GAME. I can't even believe it myself. We've moved so many times over the years that we actually keep out-of-season clothes stored in moving boxes. Saves time if he's traded."

Her depression was triggered by her eighth-grade son who had told her, "Mom, you know how I used to tell the kids at school I couldn't go out for this sport or that because I might not be here next year. Well, now I'm going to pretend we'll be here forever—and I'm going out for basketball like the rest."

"Can you believe that?" she wailed. "He's pretending, and I have this feeling we'll be moving in January. Poor kid."

My friend has logged 30 moves in 15 years. My record of NFL service was 26 moves in 14 years.

Being married to a pro football player is worse than being a migratory fruit picker. You set up shop in a furnished apartment, get the kids in school and indulge in long hours of telephone therapy to withstand the pressure of winning or the frustration of losing through football season.

My friend and I developed writer's cramp from filling out twice the normal number of school enrollment cards. Budgets were denied by two-a-year PTA memberships.

We have scrounged through Salvation Army stores for used tricycles for our uprooted three-year-olds. We have eaten turkey sandwiches in a drive-in on Thanksgiving because the team was off on a 17-day road trip.

We have done Christmas shopping by long distance because the season ended just as Santa's sleigh took off. It was a mad race in a burdened station wagon to beat the elves to the Christmas tree.

We have explained mindless boos to tearful 10-year-olds. We agonized with our husbands after defeats and suffered with them when it was their mistakes that cost the team dearly.

We nursed them through injuries, earning the equivalent of an R.N. degree in the process.

"I honestly don't know if I can face another season," my friend confessed. But, of course, she will. She always has.

So once more in 1973, from the top, and with feeling, the aging veterans will report to yet another training camp. And their wives dutifully will pack up and head out to join them.

And when retirement finally comes, they can answer the old French Revolution question with a yes and steady hands. "What did you do during the revolution?" "I survived."

Jets playoff hopes gone

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — Even in defeat, New York Jets' quarterback Joe Namath has a knack for upstaging other football players.

"Joe was on target all night," Jets' Coach Weeb Ewbank said Monday night after Namath passed for 463 yards in a 24-16 loss to the Oakland Raiders that killed the Jets' hopes of making the National Football League playoffs.

"He has these kind of games," admitted Raiders Coach John Madden, "but I feel our guy was pretty good too."

Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica, throwing a lot less than Namath, passed for 202 yards and two touchdowns in the nationally televised game.

Raiders fullback Marv Hubbard and Jets receiver Don Maynard were two other players whose feats were overshadowed by Namath's passing show.

Hubbard gained 116 yards to become the ninth NFL rusher to hit the 1,000-yard mark this season. The 35-year-old Maynard caught seven Namath passes for 131 yards and reached an all-time NFL high of 633 career receptions.

The loss left the Jets at 7-6 and eliminated their chance of winning the American Conference's wild card playoff berth. The Raiders, as champions of the AFC West, are 9-3-1 and heading toward a playoff opener on the road against Pittsburgh, or possibly Cleveland, on Dec. 23.

The Raiders kept the Jets out of the end zone after Namath hit tight end Rich Caster on a touchdown pass play covering 46 yards in the first quarter. That score put the Jets ahead 7-3.

Two interceptions near the goal line helped the Raiders. Lamonica put the ball into the end zone on a perfect 30-yard scoring toss to Fred Biletnikoff as the Raiders took a 10-7 lead in the second quarter, and a pass to Ray Chester in the fourth quarter produced a 68-yard touchdown play and the final 24-16 margin.

Namath left the game briefly after suffering a slight ankle injury. He waved a hand in appreciation as he limped off the field to the loud cheers of Oakland fans.

The touchdown pass to Chester was the biggest Oakland offensive blow of the night. It came right after Bobby Howfield's third field goal.

North Carolina finds key to victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina found the key for defeating Kentucky—build up a comfortable early lead, stall and then hope.

The strategy worked as the Tar Heels raced to a 46-36 halftime edge and then held on for a 78-70 college basketball victory Monday night.

"You aren't going to add to a 20-point halftime lead against a great team like Kentucky," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith.

"We are very happy to have gotten that win."

Kentucky's Ronnie Lyons, who didn't start due to a kidney infection and a case of anemia, scored 19 points in the second half and led a tenacious comeback effort that trimmed North Carolina's lead to 71-66 with four minutes left. Bobby Jones of the Tar Heels then tossed in two straight baskets to preserve the victory.

North Carolina, ranked No. 11 nationally, was led by George Karl's 22 points while Jones added 15. Kevin Grevey paced unranked Kentucky, which last week was tabbed eighth, with 19 points.

Jimmy Baker tossed in 40 points as Nevada-Las Vegas erased a halftime deficit and upset 10th-ranked Oral Roberts 86-80. Bob Florence added 22 points for Las Vegas and David Vaughn led Oral Roberts with 18.

No. 7 Long Beach State put six players in double figures and ripped Colorado 93-69. Roscoe Pondexter led the winners with 20 points followed by Glen McDonald with 17 and Olympic star Ed Ratleff with 16. Dave Logan led Colorado with 19.

Junior Lee Harris pumped in a career-high 30 points as Nebraska defeated Texas Christian 73-66. Harris, whose 13 field goals were one short of a Nebraska record, led the Huskers to a 30-24 halftime lead.

Don Murphy sank two free throws with three seconds remaining and lifted Cincinnati to a 76-74 triumph over Arizona State.

Freshman Leon Douglas made his varsity debut by scoring 18 points and snaring 10 rebounds in guiding Alabama to an 80-73 victory over Georgia Tech. Wendell Hudson also scored 18 for Alabama.

Unbeaten Drake, led by Dennis Bell's 26 points, posted an 83-79 victory over Creighton while George Washington beat Texas A&M 78-72.

Southern Illinois whipped Weber State 63-70, Baylor edged Oklahoma State 63-60, Rutgers defeated Lehigh 86-73 and the Australian national team downed Oakland 78-71.

Whalers edge Jets 4-3

BOSTON (AP) — No wonder Coach Jack Kelly of the New England Whalers could smile. The great former Chicago Black Hawk Bobby Hull, now player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets in the World Hockey Association, had just pronounced the Whalers' defense the most experienced in the league.

The Whalers edged Hull's team 4-3 Monday night. Mike Hyndman and Kevin Ahearn scored third period goals within three minutes of each other to snap a 2-2 deadlock.

It was the Whalers' sixth consecutive triumph and extended their Eastern Division lead to four points over idle Cleveland. It was also New England's 10th straight win on home ice. In the night's only other WHA contest, the New York Raiders beat the Chicago Cougars 3-2. There were no National Hockey League games.

"They (the Whalers) were really skating in the third period and that told a big part of the game," Hull said. "We had a little bit more staying power in the third period, things might have been different."

"The Whalers have a good experienced defense. I'd say more experienced than any other team in the league. That's where I'd start building a hockey team."

Winnipeg's goals were scored by Mike Black in the second period and Norm Beaudin and Chris Berdonaleu in the third period.

ABA prepared for all-out war fare

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) —

American Basketball Association Commissioner Robert Carlson interrupted a meeting of the ABA Board of Trustees Monday for a news conference, announcing that if Congress fails to act on legislation which would permit an ABA and National Basketball Association merger, the ABA is prepared to return to all-out warfare in its fight for survival.

He also threatened the NBA with a law suit if it doesn't go through with a pro basketball merger, should Congress pass merger legislation.

"Under our merger agreement the NBA is forced to merge if Congress passes 'reasonable and appropriate' legislation authorizing the merger," he said.

Carlson spoke on the first of a two-day meeting of ABA owners.

The owners agreed on proposed merger legislation to be introduced when Congress convenes in January, Carlson said. He also predicted the bill would have the support of the players associations of both leagues.

During the last session of Congress, a bill authorizing any anti-trust exemption for the merger failed.

In other action, the owners "discussed but did not decide on anything finally," on a draft of undergraduate players, Carlson said.

The league will "commence immediate discussion with whatever networks are interested" in a television contract with the league, Carlson said.

The ABA's contract with CBS expires after this season. The owners also ratified a labor agreement with the ABA Players Association, which Carlson said would be signed next week.

Wayne recovering from surgery

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (AP) — Wayne Maki of the Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League remained in fair condition in a hospital Monday night following a four-hour emergency operation Sunday for removal of a brain tumor.

A spokesman for Royal Columbia Hospital said the 28-year-old left winger was under intensive care. No cause of the tumor has been given.

Maki had been sent back to Vancouver from Atlanta after complaining of constant headaches during the team's latest road trip to Atlanta.

Bench will be ready for '73 opening game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Surgery performed on Cincinnati Reds' catcher Johnny Bench should result in "no impairment at all in his ability," the team's physician says.

Dr. George Ballou, speaking at a news conference after the operation at Christ Hospital Monday, said Bench should be ready to play by the Reds' 1973 opening game.

Bench, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1970 and 1971, underwent surgery for removal of a spot on one lung.

"Examination of the lesion revealed no existence of a malignant tumor," Ballou said.

"Tests are being run on this to determine the cause."

"All of these things, having complications, would indicate a quick and complete recovery."

Bench was recovering today in the intensive care unit at the hospital. His condition was listed as good.

Ballou said Bench should be hospitalized for seven to 10 days, and should make complete recovery within about eight weeks.

Ballou said it was necessary to remove "a small amount of lung tissue." But he added it was so small it couldn't be measured in percentages and wouldn't affect Bench's vital capacity in any way.

Steve Carlton leads NL's pitching record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Steve Carlton, pitching for the Philadelphia Phillies, who had the league's worst won-lost record, led National League pitchers in eight categories, official statistics released today showed.

The 27-year-old left-hander had a 27-10 record for the most victories, this despite playing for a team that finished at 58-97.

Carlton's earned run average of 1.98 shaded Cincinnati right-hander Gary Nolan, 15-5, who had 1.99. He started the most games, 41, completed the most, 30, and pitched the most innings, 346.

Carlton faced the most batters, 1,351, allowed the most hits, 257, and had the most strikeouts, 310. Unbeaten from June 7 through Aug. 17, his 15-game winning string was the NL's longest.

Right-hander Don Sutton, in his seventh season with the Los Angeles Dodgers, had the third best ERA of 2.08 and the most shutouts—nine to Carlton's eight. Sutton, 19-9, struck out 287 for fourth in that category, one whit behind Bob Gibson, 19-11, of St. Louis, whose 3.44 ERA was fifth best. Tom Seaver of the New York Mets was runner-up to Carlton in victories, 21-12, and strikeouts, 249. Seaver served up 23 home run pitches, exceeded only by the 32 thrown by Ferguson Jenkins, 20-12, of the Chicago Cubs.

Jenkins and Gibson were tied for second in complete games with 23 each.

ASU wins 3rd straight victory

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State University fought off a determined Houston Baptist team and notched its third straight victory of the season here Monday night with an 87-72 triumph over the Texas team.

ASU utilized a pressure defense midway in the first half to open a 12-point lead and held on at intermission, 42-34.

Houston Baptist closed the gap to four points twice in the second half but the Indians warmed up to win easily.

Don Scalfie led the winners with 32 points while Jay Harrison had 18 and Schuler Rowland finished with 16. E. C. Coleman paced the losers with 24 points and 17 rebounds.

all by right-handers—Burt Hooton, 11-14, of Chicago against Philadelphia April 16; Milt Pappas, 17-7, Chicago, against San Diego Sept. 2, and Bill Stoneman, 12-14, of Montreal against New York Oct. 2.

Club pitching statistics had the Los Angeles Dodgers on top with a 2.78 ERA to 2.81 for Pittsburgh. The Dodgers shut out opponents 23 times, and the Cubs were next with 19.

The Atlanta Braves' 4.27 ERA was the league's worst, their four shutouts and 732 strikeouts were low marks and the 730 runs and 156 home runs given up were league highs.

Bobby Tolan wins 1972 Hutch Award

CINCINNATI (AP) — One of sport's most remarkable comebacks has earned the 1972 Hutch Award for Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Bobby Tolan.

The 27-year-old speedster overcame two 1971 operations for a torn Achilles tendon to hit .283 and steal 42 bases for the National League pennant winners this season.

The award is named in honor of Fred Hutchinson, former major league pitcher and manager who died of cancer in November 1964. It goes to a player annually who best exemplifies Hutchinson's fighting spirit.

An organization of major league broadcasters and sports writers makes the selection. Dayton, Ohio, Journal Herald Sports Editor Ritter Collett, secretary-treasurer of the sponsoring group, said Tolan was a runaway winner.

Razorbacks defeat Indiana

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' Jody Bass and Dennis White hit six free throws in the final minutes to stave off a furious Indiana State rally and preserve a 69-76 victory for the Razorbacks over the Sycamores here Monday night.

The effort boosted the Razorbacks' to their fourth victory in five games. Indiana State fell to 1-5 for the season.

Leading comfortably at half-time, 30-27, the Razorbacks saw their lead dwindle to 72-67 with 3:10 remaining in the game. Sophomore guard Al Armstrong sparked Indiana State's rally with five straight points, but his effort fell short because of Arkansas' success from the free-throw line.

Armstrong and teammate Carl Macon led the Sycamores with 17 points each, while Dean Tolson paced Arkansas with 19. Arkansas' Martin Terry, who entered the game as one of the nation's leading scorers with a 26.3 average, was held to 15 points, his lowest production of the season.

Dems & GOP:

Changing command at HQ

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For opposite reasons, both Republicans and Democrats are changing command at their national party headquarters.

The Democrats made their switch to signal change from a leadership rejected by the voters.

In the case of the Republicans, the new management stamps more clearly than ever the imprint of the re-elected President Nixon on the management of party affairs.

Nixon, who didn't pay much attention to the Republican party in the campaign that brought his landslide re-election, now is said to be planning a shift of political operations from the White House to the GOP National Committee.

His top political operatives are leaving his staff, their functions presumably to be taken over by the Republican chairman-designate, George Bush, now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In that situation, Nixon evidently wanted his own man on full-time duty at Republican headquarters.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, the outgoing Republican chairman, was installed two years ago with Nixon's approval under an arrangement that made him party spokesman while dividing administrative and organizational responsibilities between two co-chairmen. Now all three are leaving.

Bush is to be installed when the GOP national committee meets Jan. 19, and while there may be an undertone of grumbling among party regulars about the lack of a big Nixon campaign push for the rest of the Republican ticket, the changeover almost certainly will come without significant contest.

Things are different for the party out of White House power, as the Democrats demonstrated in the sometimes-bitter contest that led to the election of Robert Strauss, a Dallas lawyer and former party treasurer, as their national chairman.

Strauss mustered a narrow majority Saturday to succeed Jean Westwood, the chairman installed by Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern. Her departure was a foregone conclusion after the trouncing McGovern suffered in the Nov. 7 election.

What the Democrats did, the Republicans had done before them, eight years ago in the aftermath of Sen. Barry Goldwater's landslide presidential defeat.

The process amounts to a sign that the loser, in this case McGovern, is no longer in charge and that it is time to rebuild for campaigns to come.

Nixon varied the formula a bit by changing chairmen after each of his victorious White House campaigns. Four years ago he dropped Ray Bliss, who had worked to pick up the pieces after the Goldwater defeat, in favor of Rogers C.B. Morton, now secretary of the Long freeze on salaries is predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman predicts that President Nixon's one-year pay-raise delay for congressmen and other top federal officials will guarantee a still-longer freeze on those salaries.

Chairman Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., of the House compensation subcommittee, said Congress likely would have vetoed the scheduled raise early next year for itself and other officials without Nixon's action "in light of the wage-price freeze and the mood of the country."

Udall said he believes Nixon's announcement Monday that he will delay the raise to about March 1974 will ensure the veto because the pay hikes would come during congressional election campaigns.

interior. Dole, who succeeded Morton, said Nixon did not ask him to resign the chairmanship and added that he had never intended to stay very long into 1973. But there were indications he had not thought he would leave quite so soon. Dole had said earlier that the odds were against his departure as chairman before the inauguration.

Dole himself announced the coming switch Monday after conferring with Nixon at the White House. As Dole told it, he did much of the persuading to get Bush to take the job. But it would be surprising if Nixon's were not the decisive voice in the selection of Bush, a former Texas congressman, and then whatever persuasion was necessary.

The announcement appeared designed to make Dole's exit as graceful as possible, and to avoid any adverse echoes in his 1974 Senate re-election campaign.

Discussion on ruling nixed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court said Monday it would not discuss the effect on Mayor's Courts in Arkansas of a U. S. Supreme Court ruling last month.

In that Ohio case, the court held there was a conflict of interest when the mayor of Monteville, Ohio, presided at a trial because fines imposed by him in the Mayor's Court amounted to substantial portions of the income of the town, over which the mayor had broad administrative responsibilities.

The state court said any comment by it on the decision would be contrary to "our settled practice of not discussing questions of theoretical interest only."

The high court was invited to comment on the decision in an appeal by Charles Russell of White County Circuit Court's denial of his petition to transfer a charge of driving while intoxicated from the Mayor's Court at Judsonia to Municipal Court at Searcy. The Supreme Court reversed the Circuit Court decision and permitted the transfer.

The jurisdiction of Mayor's Courts and justices of the peace is subject to a motion to transfer to Municipal Court when a state offense is involved, the Arkansas Supreme Court said.

"Evidently the legislature sought to achieve equality and uniformity of treatment with respect to such offenses, by making it possible for the cases to be heard by the same tribunal," wrote Associate Justice George Ross Smith.

Moreover, Smith said, a municipal judge is required to be a licensed lawyer, but there is no similar requirement with regard to mayors or justices of the peace.

Graves tells the story of 'Other Wise Man'

Rotarian Albert Graves set the mood for Christmas when he told the story, "The Other Wise Man" by Henry Van Dyke, at a meeting of the Hope Rotary Club Friday, Dec. 8 in the Town and Country. The famous story was told in an inspirational manner and pointed out how it is "better to follow in the shadow of the best than to remain behind with the worst." The story reached its climax when the fourth wise man who had been too busy helping others to visit the Babe in Bethlehem, was finally able to meet his Lord at the foot of the cross on Golgotha. President Bob Roberts was in charge of the business meeting and reported that the board had named Comer Boyett acting treasurer, due to the illness of Webb Lanester. Because of his business, it will be the next meeting before the induction of the newest member, Charles Mitchell, the new Arkansas Highway Department District Engineer.

From Hope High School Mike Huckabee visited the club for the second week and introduced a first-time visitor, Alan Foster. Two visiting Rotarians were John E. Hawkins of Texarkana and J.O. Kump of North Little Rock.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

But may be incorrect

Reader tries self diagnosis

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dr. Lamb—Is there such a thing as a diverticulum of the esophagus? Just a wild guess this may be my trouble. If it is would you recommend an operation? My symptoms are that sometimes while I am eating a meal the food seems to lodge about half way between the Adam's apple and the pit of my stomach where the ribs come together. I start hiccuping and a pain persists like I had tried to swallow a baseball. I go outside and bend over and the last four or five bites of food come up and there seems to be air bubbles mixed in with it. After this happens there is a relief of pain and a lump in my chest. If this could be a diverticulum of the esophagus would you recommend an examination and an operation if necessary?

Dear Reader—Right now you have a symptom and not a diagnosis. To answer your question specifically, you can have a diverticulum or pocket off the esophagus and some people do, however, there are several other things which may be causing your symptoms.

One of these is a lack of the normal rhythmic contraction of the lower part of the esophagus with the opening of the valve at the inlet of the stomach. When the contractions and opening of the valve are not functioning properly, food collects in the lower part of the esophagus and may cause symptoms similar to what you are describing. Then if one regurgitates undigested food, it is fairly good evidence that the food never enters the stomach.

In addition to this some individuals will have a diffuse spasm of the esophagus without any diverticulum and this will cause food to lodge in the esophagus and cause pain underneath the breast bone in the center of the chest.

Finally, benign tumors and even cancer of the esophagus can cause problems in swallowing. There is no way to know whether a person has simply an esophageal spasm which is painful but not life-threatening or whether one has a more serious disease without having a careful examination of the esophagus. This means you should go to the doctor and he should do a barium swallow and watch the chalky fluid pass down the esophagus and watch the contractions of the esophagus as it moves along. If there is any tumor or growth in the area, he can probably get a good idea from this test. If it is just spasm of the esophagus, he may even see this, and there are medicines which can be given to control this problem, if it is too bothersome.

If it is because of a failure in contraction of the esophagus and problem of opening of the valve of the stomach, this can be identified and some early forms of treatment provided. Unless you have a tumor you probably wouldn't need an operation, as long as your symptoms are mild, but I think you had better go see a doctor and make sure you don't have a tumor, rather than attributing all of your symptoms to the diverticulum. And I would also like to suggest that you not waste any time in getting a doctor's appointment, because if you have a tumor that needs to be removed, the earlier it is diagnosed, the better chance you have for satisfactory treatment. The symptom of difficulty in swallowing which develops in anyone and is not explained should cause them to go at once to the doctor and have an examination without delay.

An inside look at John Kennedy

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — John Kennedy barking vocal exercises in the bathtub, seeking companionship on lonely evenings in the White House, pausing to write a note of encouragement to the mother of a badly burned child on the day his infant son died — these are the images of the late president in a new book written by two close friends.

David F. Powers and Kenneth P. O'Donnell, beer-drinking political buddies of long standing and White House confidants of John F. Kennedy, spent eight months after his assassination recording on tape their memories of Kennedy.

Those tapes are now a book, "Johnny, We Hardly Knew Ye," an affectionate, personal remembrance produced with the help of writer Joe McCarthy.

O'Donnell reports one conversation, occasioned by the doubts he voiced concerning Kennedy's choice of Lyndon B.

Johnson as his running mate in 1960.

"He said something to me that I am always going to remember: 'Get one thing clear, Kennedy, I'm 43 years old, and I'm the healthiest candidate for president in the country, and I'm not going to die in office.'"

During the 1960 presidential campaign, the authors report, Kennedy did vocal exercises to preserve his voice. One of those exercises called for him to bark like a dog for 30 minutes every morning. Kennedy took to doing this in the bathtub.

"The first time that we heard the strange animal sounds coming from the bathroom, Dave (Powers) opened the door to see what was happening. Kennedy looked at him from the tub, embarrassed. 'I heard a funny noise,' Dave said, 'and I thought there was a seal in the tub.' For the next few weeks we had to make up excuses when an early morning visitor at our hotel room asked what was going on in the bathroom."

What the authors add to the already considerable Kennedy literature is a personal view only close pals could have. He cursed occasionally, liked sports, was entranced by celebrities, and remembered others even at moments of personal travail.

When Patrick Bouvier Kennedy was born prematurely in August 1963, Kennedy stayed at the Boston hospital where the baby was taken.

Awakened early one morning because the baby's condition was worse, Kennedy, while waiting for an elevator, saw a child who had been severely burned. He asked the mother's name, Powers said, then wrote a note of sympathy and encouragement to her.

Two hours later, the Kennedy baby died. Powers was with the president. "He went upstairs to the room where he had been sleeping, sat on the bed and wept."

A pessimist is a fellow who thinks that something isn't right if it isn't wrong.

IN MEMORIAM—At the Lions Club annual Christmas banquet Monday night at Perry's Restaurant, Mrs. Hubert Thrash, widow of Lion Hubert Thrash who died earlier this year, was presented a memorial plaque from the club, bearing a picture of the late Mr. Thrash.

People in the News

LONDON (AP) — Tricia Nixon Cox and her husband, Edward, have arrived in London for the start of an European vacation.

The couple was met at Heathrow Airport Monday night by Mrs. Walter Annenberg, the wife of the U.S. ambassador, and a squad of British security officers. They were driven directly to the ambassador's residence for the stay in London.

The Cox' European holiday will include an extensive visit to the Soviet Union. They also will visit Rome and will join Julie Nixon Eisenhower and her Navy lieutenant husband, David, in Athens for Christmas.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Entertainer Dean Martin has been granted a divorce, ending a 23-year marriage to former model Jeanne Riegger.

Martin, 54, appeared briefly

Monday before Superior Court Judge Jack T. Ryburn and said that "irreconcilable differences" were the cause of the breakup. Mrs. Martin, 44, did not attend the hearing.

Martin earlier asked for, and was granted, a separate trial on property settlement and support. That trial is scheduled for Jan. 18.

MIAMI (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, the 82-year-old World War I flying ace, is reported steadily improving at Memorial Hospital, where he is recovering from a stroke.

"He's an amazing man," said Dr. John Handwerker in reporting Monday that Rickenbacker had been taken off the critical list.

Rickenbacker, who suffered a stroke at his Key Biscayne home Oct. 11, had not been expected to survive more than a few days, Handwerker said.

Opening lead—♠ 5

It should be obvious to South that if anyone holds the last two spades it is West. Therefore, West is the dangerous hand and South must keep him out of the lead.

A finesse against West makes this certain. South plays his king of diamonds; continues with the 10 and lets it ride if West does not cover.

West does have the queen so the finesse works and South makes his contract with an overtrick but South should take no pride in this. He has merely played the hand in workmanlike fashion and made sure of his contract irrespective of the success of the finesse.

Boyleing it down

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks an author gets tired of hearing:
"Why don't you write a cook book? Everyone else has."
"I'll tell you why I think you should use a non de plume — because I don't think anyone could make Willoughby Wilberforce Willoughby a household name."
"You didn't put enough sex in it."
"You put too much sex in it."
"I hear they are going to give a cocktail party when your new novel comes out — but they're going to hold it in a telephone booth."
"I must say I haven't read a word you've written. But I have read all the reviews of your books, and some of them didn't sound half bad."

"What do you do besides write books?"

"Why don't you write a book on ecology? Ecology's big right now."
"I wish my wife were here to meet you. She's the one in the family who's gaga over literary lions."

"Willoughby, this one really would have knocked them dead 50 years ago when the Saturday Evening Post was going strong. What do you plan to do with it now — bury it?"

"I told you before you started the book I didn't like the idea in the first place. Now that you've written the book, I don't like the idea in the second place."

"We'll be glad to send you your royalties, Willoughby, as soon as they amount to more than the postage it would take to mail the letter."

"Why don't you write a novel about astrology, Willoughby? Nobody can write a book on astrology that won't make a profit."

"Why don't you spend your winters on the French Riviera like most successful writers do?"

"I'm afraid you'll have to go back to driving a cab for the Christmas season, Willoughby, or else Santa Claus won't come to our house this year."

"If that guy is a literary lion, then I must have forgotten what a mouse looks like."

FOR THE LOVE OF ALLAH, one might ask, what can James Bond be up to now? Nothing more nerve-racking, as it turns out, than taking a crucial putt the Sean Connery way. The actor was a participant in a pro-am golf tournament at La Manga, Spain.
